

NOVIO

The same as writing and singing and Maths it is OK to copy your play and Drama from others when starting out so we provide demonstrations of the finished pieces of work and also model the conversations to have during planning stages. The less confident can copy the more confident can leap off from that given starting point.

The sensory aspects of Drama can be very overwhelming. To help headphones can be useful as well as writing instructions rather than speaking, having quiet spaces available, brain breaks and clear routines regarding moving around the space.

Helping pupils with ASC

In DRAMA

Pretend

Real

Pupils with ASC can pretend, can create, can do team work and can perform. The barriers that an individual will have may not necessarily be the barriers that we expect so difficulties have to be dealt with through dialogue and exploration.

Videoing work and watching it back in a structured and supportive way is great for helping recall and developing self-awareness.

Forum theatre works really well for exploring future scenarios such as drinking at parties, making new friends and interviews.
